50 companies ready to export: Results of the Export Management Coaching Initiative in Tajikistan

In 2021, the six national coaches, trained under R4T project, visited 48 businesses across Tajikistan, analyzed their activities, and provided more than 1,200 recommendations to help them to start or to improve their export business. More than 750 of these recommendations have already been implemented and are bringing results for the economy of Tajikistan.

Enterprises in Tajikistan benefitted from the Ready4Trade Export Management Coaching Initiative (EMCI), the initiative to improve SMEs' capacity to comply with cross-border requirements (including quality standards, technical regulations, relevant preferential trading schemes/GSP+). To accomplish this, Ready4Trade, in cooperation with the National Association of Small and Medium Business of Tajikistan (NASMB), is offering practical and action-oriented advisory services to businesses. Six local professionals with extensive experience in the fields of import/export, freight forwarding and logistics were trained as coaches to then extend their knowledge to certain selected Tajik businesses through one-on-one, on-the-job training over the course of five days.

Achievement:

Tajik customs officers tackle operational risks to improve business environment

The International Trade Centre's European Union-funded Ready4Trade project supported Tajikistan's Customs Service in updating the regulation on customs risk management and in developing a user guide that enables customs officials to enforce the regulation at the border.

The user guide provides a comprehensive list of actions for customs officers to rely on when developing a risk profile, suspend or cancel one, and record it in a tailored software. Moreover, the guide allows customs officials to determine how to treat a red-flagged business, and more importantly, helps to facilitate efficiency and transparency of cross-border trade operations.

Ready4Trade trains to collect gender-disaggregated data

How do we set benchmarks and gauge progress on topics like gender equality through the collection of relevant data?

That is what Ready4Trade set out to do with its latest trainings in its five Central Asian project countries.

To end 2021, Ready4Trade conducted a set of workshops on gender-disaggregated data for trade policymaking.

The workshops were comprised of four training modules and focused on demonstrating the importance of collecting data that not only accounts for the number of people present in a data set, but also considers how many women or men have been surveyed in order to assess differences and limitations and present more accurate data.
